12                  JEAN GLEE STRICKLAND et al.,

Case No. C05-5543FDB

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION:

NOTED FOR:
January 7th, 2005

15                 This civil rights action has been referred to the undersigned Magistrate Judge pursuant to 16 Title 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B). Plaintiff is an inmate currently incarcerated at the Twin Rivers
17 Corrections Center. Plaintiff is proceeding in forma pauperis. (Dkt. # 5). Plaintiff filed this action
18 to challenge the actions of a private therapist in the community and a person who owns the company
19 that employs the therapist. (Dkt. # 6).

20                   FACTS

21                 Plaintiff alleges he was on probation and involved in court ordered therapy as part of that 22 probation. Plaintiff was either terminated or quit therapy and as a result, plaintiff's probation was 23 revoked and he is currently incarcerated. (Dkt. # 6). Plaintiff names as defendant, Jean Glee
24 Strickland, the therapist, and Ms. Comte, who owns the company for whom the therapist works.
25 Plaintiff alleges "unlawful interference" with his person and he challenges the conditions of treatment
26 placed on him by Ms. Strickland. (Dkt. # 6).

27                 On October 7th, 2005 the court entered an order to show cause as it appeared the defendants

1 in this action were not acting under color of state law and plaintiff's action seemed to be a collateral
2 challenge to the legality of his current confinement. (Dkt. # 7). Plaintiff responded and states he is
3 currently challenging the constitutionality of the treatment component of his probation in King
4 County Superior Court. (Dkt. # 8, page 2). He argues this action is to redress the unconstitutional
5 treatment he was subjected to. He claims the viewing of pornographic material violates his religious
6 rights under the First Amendment. He also claims his termination from treatment violated equal
7 protection, due process, and amounted to cruel and unusual punishment and that he was entitled to a
8 "Christian therapist." (Dkt. # 8).

9 DISCUSSION

10 Plaintiff's action is intertwined with the facts leading to his probation revocation to the extent
11 that proceeding with this action would call into question the propriety of the decision to revoke his 12 probation. When a person confined by the state is challenging the very fact or duration of his 13 physical imprisonment, and the relief he seeks will determine that he is or was entitled to immediate 14 release or a speedier release from that imprisonment, his sole federal remedy is a writ of habeas
15 corpus. Preiser v. Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 475, 500 (1973). In June 1994, the United States Supreme 16 Court held that "[e]ven a prisoner who has fully exhausted available state remedies has no cause of 17 action under § 1983 unless and until the conviction or sentence is reversed, expunged,
18 invalidated, or impugned by the grant of a writ of habeas corpus." Heck v. Humphrey, 512
19 U.S. 477, 487 (1994)(emphasis added). The court added:

20 Under our analysis the statute of limitations poses no difficulty while the state
21 challenges are being pursued, since the § 1983 claim has not yet arisen. . . . [A]
22 § 1983 cause of action for damages attributable to an unconstitutional conviction or 23 sentence does not accrue until the conviction or sentence has been invalidated.
24 Id. at 489. “[T]he determination whether a challenge is properly brought under § 1983 must be 25 made based upon whether ‘the nature of the challenge to the procedures [is] such as necessarily to 26 imply the invalidity of the judgment.’ Id. If the court concludes that the challenge would necessarily 27 imply the invalidity of the judgment or continuing confinement, then the challenge must be brought 28 as a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, not under § 1983.” Butterfield v. Bail, 120 F.3d 1023,

1 1024 (9th Cir.1997) (quoting Edwards v. Balisok, 520 U.S. 641 (1997)).

2 Further, the defendants in this action are private persons who do not act under color of state
3 law. As the court explained in the Order to Show Cause:

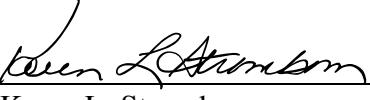

4 In order to state a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a complaint must allege that
5 (l) the conduct complained of was committed by a person acting under color of state
6 law and that (2) the conduct deprived a person of a right, privilege, or immunity
7 secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States. Parratt v. Taylor, 451 U.S.
8 527, 535 (1981), overruled on other grounds, Daniels v. Williams, 474 U.S. 327
9 (1986). Section 1983 is the appropriate avenue to remedy an alleged wrong only if 10 both of these elements are present. Haygood v. Younger, 769 F.2d 1350, 1354 (9th
11 Cir. 1985), cert. denied, 478 U.S. 1020 (1986). Here, plaintiff challenges treatment
12 provided by a therapist but fails to show the therapist is acting under color of state
13 law.

14 (Dkt. # 7).

15 In response to the order to show cause plaintiff states it would have been more appropriate
16 for him to allege a conspiracy under 42 U.S.C. § 1985. (Dkt. # 8). The response misses the mark.
17 Plaintiff is challenging the propriety of the decision to revoke his probation and this action must be 18 filed as a habeas corpus petition. This action should be DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.
19 A proposed order accompanies this Report and Recommendation.

20 Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1) and Rule 72(b) of the Federal rules of Civil Procedure, the 21 parties shall have ten (10) days from service of this Report to file written objections. See also Fed.
22 R. Civ. P. 6. Failure to file objections will result in a waiver of those objections for purposes of 23 appeal. Thomas v. Arn, 474 U.S. 140 (1985). Accommodating the time limit imposed by Rule
24 72(b), the clerk is directed to set the matter for consideration on January 7th, 2006.

25
26 DATED this 8th day of December, 2005.
